IRC To Present Original Plays At Chapel

The International Relations Club will present its second chapel program on Tuesday, February 21, and its annual Convocation program on Wednesday, February 22, of the coming week.

Chapel for the Freshmen will consist of a series of skits based on incidents in the life of George Washington which influenced his rise to fame. These skits are original, having been written by members of Mr. Weiss' playwriting class. They will be presented in the form of a radio broadcast and will be interspersed with music, favorite selections of George Washington, played on the violin and piano.

The Convocation program will be in the form of a trilogy forum, led by Rabbi Calisch of the Betha Araba Synagogue in Richmond, Virginia and two members of his congregation. They will discuss a question of vital importance to them and to the world as a whole—the Jewish problem in Palestine. This will be the second in a series of authorities on world affairs to be presented to the student body by the International Relations Club during the current session.

Far Eastern Student Fund Campaign On

The Far Eastern Student Service Fund was created for the benefit of helping students in Chinese and Japanese Colleges. This is a nation-wide movement in colleges all over the United States. Among the colleges participating in Virginia are Randolph Macon Woman's College, Hollins, Sweet Briar, and Mary Washington.

Pledge $15

A two weeks campaign has been started here and our pledge is fifteen dollars. This is a very small sum considering the size of the student body. Each student is asked to contribute a few cents to help this worthy cause.

Y. W. C. A. Activities

The drive is a Y. W. C. A. activity which comes under the World Fellowship Committee. The committee has been sub-divided by its chairman, Henrietta Roberts, into groups. The group in charge of the Far Eastern Student Service is under the direction of Georgiana Woodhouse.

Dr. Davis Addresses YW Cabinet

Dr. Richard B. Davis, professor of English, spoke to the Y. W. Cabinet Wednesday, February 8, at the regular monthly meeting. His subject for the evening was "The Importance of Being Interested." This is a vital subject on the hill at the present time when student interests seem to have reached a low ebb. What can be done to arouse student interest and curiosity is one of the big problems of today.

"Real success in life," quoted Dr. Davis, "private or public, is nothing but a sustained interest carried on with ardent fervor in one's occupation." To bring this statement closer to real life, Dr. Davis illustrated with brief biographies of Benjamin Franklin, Charles Darwin, Mozart, and Mary Shelley, showing their reputations developed from their interests. One speaks of these people as geniuses, but what is genius? Dr. Davis said, "Genius is a result of intense interest, plus persistent effort from childhood through life, to produce innermost hopes and interests."

Stresses Satisfaction With Work

Most students think of going to college as a means to reap material success which does not often mean happiness, the ultimate goal of all workers and dreamers. The people who are happiest are those engaged in doing what they want to do and what they like to do.

The trouble with most students is that they have no special interest before starting their college life. They are afraid to specialize and instead take a nibble at a number of subjects, never having or taking the time to develop any one of them thoroughly. The world is becoming more interdependent and more specialized every day, so don't be afraid to specialize!

"Warrior's Husband" Inaugurates Campus Little Theatre Movement

Production Of Julian Thompson Play To Be Feb. 24

The Mary Washington Players group is earnestly engaged in inaugurating a Little Theatre Movement in this college. In a cosmopolitan school of this type where nearly every state is represented, as well as some foreign countries, it is felt that only, worth-while productions should be presented. The "Warrior's Husband" being presented on February 24th is an embodiment of this progressive spirit.

Many people are familiar with the movie version with Elisa Landi but few have come in contact with the stage play which skyrocketed Katherine Hepburn to stardom.

The play deals with the ninth labor of Hercules; that of obtaining the magical girdle of Hippolyta, Queen of the Amazons. Combined with fast-moving action and keen wit is a clever picture of the enducians situations that would arise were men the weaker sex.

With the splendid cooperation of the art and home economics departments and various other organizations, the "Warrior's Husband" has become more than just a Mary Washington Players' production. Under the direction of Miss Dorothy Duggan, a group of art students is designing and decorating the costumes, while members of Miss Annabelle Merrill's Home Economics class are creating the costumes. Between acts the college orchestra will officiate and as an overture, they will offer "The Vision of Salame."

Carolyn Muirhead, Doris Jean Snow, and Ellen Baab are in charge of costuming, setting, and construction.

The cast boasts many experienced actresses. Among them is Dorothy Harrington, who played the role of Kaye Hamilton in "Stage Door." Dorothy Harrington is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa at Mary Washington College. She has had a previous dramatic record of no little honor, having won a scholarship to Ithaca Dramatic School in the Little Theatre tournament between New York and New Jersey last year. In addition she has won several first place honors in oratorical contests throughout New York. In "The Warrior's Husband" she played the role of Hippolyta, Queen of the Amazons.

The role of Princess Antrapie is charmingly portrayed by Sara Dodd, of Columbus, Ohio. Sara has had little experience having played on a small part in high school, but her latent ability and talent have sprung into fire evidence in her debut in "The Warrior's Husband."

Dramatic Head

Thesus, the Greek hero, is played by Mary Jane Beatty of New Rochelle, New York. Her record in dramatics includes the role of Joseph Surface in "School for Scandal." Mary Jane has appeared on the radio, representing the Washington Irving School and has attended dramatic school in New York City. In "Stage Door" Mary Jane gave the realistic death scream of Kaye Hamilton.

Kitty Roberts of Norfolk, Virginia is cast in the role of Sappens, the effeminate husband of Queen Hippolyta. Kitty's past experience includes the roles of "Tilly" in "Little Geraldine" and "Big Mary" in "Stage Door."

Others worthy of honorable mention are Mary Elizabeth Welsh of Miami, Florida, and Mary Lou Wilcox, of Richmond, Virginia. The former took part in "Cradle Song" and "The Merchant of Venice" last year. Psi Omega has been active on both business and dramatic ends of productions here.

On Thursday, February 23, the table girls will be the guests of the entire cast at dress rehearsal.

With the combined efforts of the cast, Mr. Weiss, Miriam Carpenter, student directress, and assisting committees and organizations the "Warrior's Husband" is going far to establish a tradition of outstanding achievement in dramatics at M. W. C.

ATTENTION SWIMMERS!

Attention everybody!! In case you don't know it, there's going to be a combined class and Intercollegiate swimming meet at M. W. C. on March 2 (also March 10). It's going to be one big event, it is! Not only will it be the clash against Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors for the title of class champion, but a clash against colleges all over the east for the title of champion of the Eastern region, and, finally, a clash against colleges all over the country for the title of national champion. In other words, my frans, it's the National Intercollegiate Telegraphic Swimming Meet, held in the form of a class meet—no more, no less.

Would you like to know the events of the meet? There'll be the crawl, breast, and back strokes for 20, 40, and 100 yards; a snazzy little medley relay, using all three strokes, an 80-yard free style relay, and diving.

Now for just about the most important thing of all—the practice es. After all, you can't be in a meet without training for it, can you? Well, practices are held every day at five o'clock.

There's just one more thing I want to tell you. You don't have to be an expert swimmer to enter the meet. Each event will be divided into three classes to take care of different grades of swimmers.

Sooooooo, ALL youse girls what can swim truck it over to the pool at five o'clock next Monday (the 20th) and support your class and your school. Now don't wait 'till the next day, 'cause Monday is the last day you can enter.

Let's see some REAL school spirit back of this meet! How about it? Are you willing to try?

P. S. It might interest you to know that out of those who participate in the meet, Miss Sinclair is going to pick a group of girls to give an exhibition at William and Mary on March 18. (Class cuts must be taken for this.)

QUESTION ? ?

Many of the Alumni have written asking if the Bullet couldn't do something to strengthen the ties between the Alumni and college and between the Alumni themselves.

IN ANSWER!

In answer to this I am taking the time and space to discuss a few plans that have already been made relative to this subject.

PLANS

The night of ballot election-day, the Bullet is giving a benefit in the form of a radio broadcast and dance. During the evening election returns, specialty numbers, news and feature broadcasts, will interrupt the music. The proceeds will go to paying for a "life" issue of the "Bullet"; copies of which will be sent to the Alumni, with the cooperation of Miss Clara Boyd Wheeler, Alumni President.

ALUMNI PAGE!

The third page of this issue will be given over to Alumni pictures and news with announcements regarding the gala Alumni meeting held late in the spring.

HOPES!

It is hoped that through the medium of the "Bullet" a closer, finer and more successful Alumni will develop.

Here, The Bullet is pleased to present a timely discussion of a subject which, we believe, is of such importance as to merit its publication herein.

A Dissertation On Theme Writing

Well and now what should I do? French, no, I can do that tonight. History, tomorrow morning. Lets see, it seems like I had an essay or theme or something to write for English. I think its due soon. Now where'd I put my notes? Oh my gosh! This says next Monday. Oh mercy! That can't be right! Why how does she expect me to write a whole big, long paper in that short a time? Gee! that must be the wrong date due. I'll ask Hilda. Hi Hilda, gee, thanks for the chocolates. Did HE send them? Umm, sure are good. Thanks, I will have another. Of course this is all off my diet but—hey, is this a new magazine? May I read it soon? Gee, I love these new Dutch shoes. Aren't they darling? Oh, say, Hilda, I meant to ask you when are our English themes due? No—not next Monday? Are you sure? Positive? Your's done? You've been working on it for the past three weeks! Well, gee whizz, why didn't you tell me? I haven't even finished my research for it! Oh mercy, I'll never get done! "Scuse me—I got work to do! Hey, Sally, have you seen my pencil? Turn off the radio, please—I got a theme due Monday! Say, do you mind carrying on that confab elsewhere? Better set the alarm for 5 A. M. tomorrow, now, before I forget! Gollie—why didn't I do this last week? I swear I'll never get caught like this again—gosh!

Freshman Commission Presents Lively Chapel Program

Last Tuesday's chapel program, presented by the Freshman Commission, proved to be a novel entertainment, and was enthusiastically received by the audience. The usual seriousness of chapel was abandoned for a subject more fitting the occasion—St. Valentine's Day.

The stage was temporarily changed into a school room, presided over by Mary Dryden, president of the Commission. Teacher Dryden conducted a special Valentine's Day program for her pupils, the Commission members.

Paie Livermon read from her notebook an account of the origin of St. Valentine's Day; and Nancy Brooker, Gracie Cureton, ton, Ruth Duff, and Pat Peterson, harmonized on one of Mary Estes' original compositions. Kay Nelson, a special visitor to the school, momentarily lent an air of seriousness to the performance with her version of "Deep Purple."

A Valentine box, done in traditional red and white crepe paper, was opened on the stage. Its contents, valentines bearing significant verses about various members of the Freshman Class, afforded great delight. The program closed with a vigorous interpretation of "Happy Valentine's to You."

A Peep At Peoples' And Other Pleasant Places

If any of us did some talking about college life, during our Xmas vacation, and who didn't?—it must have been mostly about all the jolly times we have had up here. And we must admit that we have heaps of crazy fun in our spare moments. Every college town has its haunts, its favorite holes-in-the-walls, pet soda fountains, well loved sandwich shops. Here and there one can turn up at the most unexpected moment.

First of all lets take a peep at "Peoples". This is the general gathering place for the girls on the hill. It is to "Peoples" that we go for a toasted ham sandwich and a "coc". Drop in any Friday nite and you find the same old crowd avoiding fish and diverting their sorrows with a juicy steak sandwich.

"Southern Grill" is more elite. In fact, it has a very collegiate air. Here one finds a moderate soda fountain where one sips a hot chocolate.

Still on campus, there are many other gathering places. Take the "Tearoom" for instance. Those Freshmen believe in entertaining at home, for there's always a crowd. If you need a few lessons in the swing of the "little Apple", or the art of sipping a "coc" thru the heavy traffic and just to be luxurious, you can "drop a slug in a slot" and hear your favorite piece without raising an eyebrow.

If you happen to be in an athletic mood, just move along to the gym and indulge in a bit of ping-pong, which, by the way is something I have yet to manipulate.

Interesting Personalities No. 2

Mary Halliburton

As my second Interesting Personality I have chosen a girl who has been in almost every country of the world—none other than Mary Halliburton of the Freshman class. Being the daughter of a Navy officer, Mary has lived in a good many different countries of the world. Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Mary started traveling at the tender age of two weeks. Since then she has lived in England, Belgium, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, China, Japan, Panama, Cuba, California, New Jersey, Washington, and last but not least, VIRGINIA. She has been across the continent three times.

Going across the Atlantic to England, Mary fell out of her high chair and cracked her head open. She had to be kept awake for 48 hours so that she wouldn't go to sleep permanently. "And that," she explained, "is the reason I'm like I am now."

"The only thing I can remember about England was buying a white bunny fur at the age of two years. In England my first Christmas tree was made of English holly, because they don't use evergreen over there."

When asked how she managed to get educated traveling and moving around so much, she replied, "In the Philippines I didn't go to school much, but I was tutored by a Catholic priest. In Honolulu I had to go to school across the harbor by boat."

I asked her how she liked Hawaii and if she thought it was what everyone thinks it is. "Yes," she replied, "Hawaii is practically all it's 'cracked up to be.' And, there really is a moon out there."

Miss Montgomery reports at seven o'clock Tuesday night that all the mail is up. Of course we couldn't imagine the reason the mail was so heavy, as we sat back with the "tummy" ache from all that St. Valentine's candy! 'Tis time to have a boy friend SOME-TIMES.

We wonder if you're girls who went to Blacksburg and Virginia over the week-end are aware what day of the week it is. Now don't take me wrong, I mean have you caught up on your shut-eye! 'Twas worth it though they declared.

Just an old warning—from the wise. Be careful, the flue seems to be getting around these days!

Janet Patterson and Glenn Powers were week-end guests at our sister rival "Madison."

Sally Edwards was a cute girl and trucked home to Newport News over the week-end. That was good ole cake you brought back!

Does South Carolina seem a far piece away to you all? Well it doesn't seem to mean much as far as telephone calls are concerned does it Virginia Ramsey? Not to mention Eugenia Clark who gets that call weekly. That Carolina moon must be shining bright!

Kay Rucker why don't you make up your mind as to your O. A. O. ?!

Welcome to our campus Mrs. Hazlett! We do wish more mothers would follow the example you have set!

Sarah Mae Viverette and Martha Price Jenkins were among the week-enders in Washington. They visited an old student Dorothy Balance.

The gardenias grow there all year around. "Another wonderful thing about Hawaii, is," she added, peeling an orange, "In one house we lived in, I had a banana tree growing right outside my window. All I had to do in the morning was to open the window, reach out and pick my breakfast. In Hawaii I spent most of my time swimming and getting tan. The water is always warm in Honolulu. They have what they call "liquid sunshine" there. All the time it is raining the sun is shining. You can walk down the street and get soaking wet and in five minutes be completely dry. In Hawaii, we lived right near Pearl Harbor. I had a rowboat of my own and I used to row all around the bay. I spent all my time in a boat or fishing. I've been fishing millions of times, but I've never really caught a fish. Once in Honolulu I dropped a line in off the end of the dock, and left it there for three days. When I pulled it in the fish was so dead that I had to give it to the cat.

"When going from the East to the West coast through the Panama Canal I got completely brown in three days. The Central American sun is so hot that you can get a wonderful tan so quickly. Oh, I forgot to tell you that my favorite pastime is taking sun-baths. I also love to sail and spend all summer in boats."

"While in California we lived in San Diego, and near San Francisco in the Santa Clara Valley." When asked if she liked California, Mary replied, "California is a wonderful place. But," she added, "Hollywood is not all it's cracked up to be. I've never seen a movie star in Hollywood, but I've seen them every place else in California. But, just because Hollywood's in California, it's all right with me."

"We've been to Japan four different times, but I've never seen Mt. Fujiyama, and that was principally what I wanted to go for. I ought to warn you," she continued, "never go riding in a sedan chair unless you have a strong stomach. The constant joggling in the air makes you sick. We lived in China 3½ years and I liked it a lot. Over there I went to school three days a week and spent the rest of my time playing tennis, golf and swimming. We bicycled a lot over there."

Fond of Travel

When I asked her if she liked to travel she replied laughingly, "One meets such interesting people when one travels. Yes, I am getting tired of moving around, but that doesn't mean I don't want to travel anymore. Next I want to go to South America. That is one place I've never been and would like very much to go to."

"People often ask me if I'm related to Richard Halliburton. Yes, he is a distant cousin and I love his books, but I think he is a good liar. I think he exaggerates too much."

Spotting the Sports

With Jane Adams

It's getting so that I'm a regular basketball fan myself. With all these games and practices, one can hardly help becoming interested. On Friday, February 10, the Seniors were forced to forfeit to the Sophomores. The Seniors were handicapped by the disability of several of their players. However, as a substitute game, the Sophomores were challenged by the Pick-Ups. The game turned out to be a one-sided affair, in favor of the Pick-Ups.

On Tuesday, February 14, the Seniors composed themselves and found enough players to make a team. But their luck soon changed when the Freshmen defeated them, 29-17. As in the Junior-Freshman game, the forward trio were especially outstanding. MacPherson, Peterson, and Baker compose this triumvirate. The Seniors refused to take a back seat and their playing was indeed noteworthy of praise. I could simplify matters if I'd just say, "Everyone played swell."

I hope you girls aren't forgetting about the coming swimming meet. The practice schedule is as follows:

Freshman—Tuesday and Thursday.

Sophomore—Tuesday and Wednesday.

Junior - Senior — Monday and Wednesday.

Remember, you are all urged to come out and try. 'Nothing ventured, nothing gained.' Mary Elizabeth Walsh, President of the Swimming Club, is extremely anxious to have a large number of persons trying out. She still emphasizes the point that you need not be an expert swimmer! Meets aren't solely made up of champions.

This week's congrats go to Helen Hyde! Helen recently received her national rating for officiating in basketball. At the present, she is the only student on the hill to have her national rating. However, several of the other girls are expected to receive their's in a few weeks or so.

Well, night is drawing nigh and I'm not very good at scribing in the dark—so I must bring this chatter to a close. The object of the whole column is that I want you to know what sport activities are occurring on the hill at present. One thing I like about this place—it never rains so as to interfere with the sports program. Pretty nice, don't you think?

Always interesting are the results of various polls conducted on college and university campuses. Those seeking to gain further insight into the way the wind of collegiate opinion is blowing will examine with interest the results presented here:
